

Training and Awareness Services

An organisation's security is only as strong as its weakest link. While an organisation may have developed a comprehensive regime of policies and procedures, implemented a robust and secure architecture, these may all prove to be worthless if the staff are unaware of what is required of them.

Understanding the Issue

Coupled with the inherent security risks of an untrained workforce, consideration must also be given to the legal and regulatory requirements organisations are now facing. If staff have not been adequately trained it may result in direct legal implications and financial penalties.

Drawing on the in-depth knowledge of the PSIA consultants and their long standing experience of developing and delivering bespoke training Platinum Squared able to offer a complete range of training services covering topics such as:

- ISO27001 compliance.
- Risk Analysis and Management.
- Staff Awareness of Legal and Regulatory Compliance.
- Data Protection Act.
- Freedom of Information Act.
- Information Security Awareness.

Closely aligned to training is the development and promulgation of awareness materials to re-enforce the key security messages. Platinum Squared's consultants are also skilled in providing practical advice on the development of awareness materials and innovative methods for ensuring maximum awareness of the key messages ranging from basic posters to developed intranet awareness campaigns.

By ensuring staff are fully trained an organisation will be able to reduce the risks and harmonise the security infrastructure with a single vision, where staff work to a common goal supported by policies, procedures and technical services.
